North Carolina Bankers Thwarted in Plan to Stop Credit Union's Formation

Special to the American Banker

RALEIGH, N.C. — North Carolina bankers have lost the latest round in their effort to prevent city and county employees from forming a statewide credit union.

A federal appeals court has upheld the local government workers' 14,000-member credit union, the North Carolina Local Government Employees Federal Credit Union, which was organized in 1983 after the bankers successfully prevented the North Carolina State Employees Credit Union from expanding its field of membership to the local-government workers.

A spokesman for the North Carolina Bankers Association said the decision, handed down by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, Richmond, Va., is likely to be appealed before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Just as they had in the earlier case against the state employees' credit union — the third largest credit union in the nation — the bankers argued that an organization of workers from different cities and counties does not have sufficient "common bond."

Allowing the local government workers to form a credit union, the bankers' argument continued, constitutes unfair competition for other financial institutions.

James French, executive director of the North Carolina Local Government Employees Federal Credit Union, said he welcomes the appeals court's decision. That credit union has approximately $12 million in deposits, he noted, and its business is transacted through branches of the state employees' credit union, which charges 25% of income for the service.

The bankers' suit was filed against the local government credit union and the National Credit Union Administration, which approved the 1983 charter.

The suit charges that the charter was in violation of national law enabling formation of credit unions. The banks assert their "zone of interest" is jeopardized by the credit union.

The appeals court considered the question of whether banking operations were damaged, and rejected the claim. Judge J. Harvie Wilkinson 3d stated that the Federal Credit Union Act doesn't provide such protection.

"Congress acted to enhance credit availability for people of limited means and collateral," he said, "and evidenced no concern to protect or consider the interest of banks." ■

Union Planters Program Gets Memphis Award

MEMPHIS — Union Planters National Bank's Impact program has received the "corporate neighbor of the year" award as the top volunteer effort in Memphis.

Impact (Individuals Making Progress and Changing Tomorrow) was recognized for the 50,000 hours of volunteer work contributed by its employees, 30,000 hours of it in 1985 alone.

In its first public appearance, the Impact vocal group entertained at a reception at Memphis City Hall in honor of the Homecoming '86 Tennessee Volunteer Hall of Fame.

Union Planters also served as a site for the recent city-wide Health Fair, staffed by company volunteers and health professionals and screening about 250 Memphis residents. ■ of the top 5,000 banks, compared with 48.8% in 1984 and 50.8% in 1983.

The state with the largest number of banks ranked among the top 5,000 was Texas, with 700 banks. Illinois again was second with 442 banks. California was third with 211 banks, up from 196 in 1984, when it ranked sixth. Michigan ranked fourth with 207 banks, up from 197 in 1985, when it ranked fifth. And Pennsylvania dropped to fifth place; it had 200 banks in 1985, compared with 207 in 1984, when it ranked third.

The states with the largest deposit growth were New Hampshire, with an increase of 28.2%; Delaware, with an increase of 27.1%; Connecticut, with a 23% gain; and Rhode Island, with a 19.6% increase.

The four states with deposit declines were: South Dakota, with a decrease of 10.6%; Montana, with a decline of 8.7%; Wyoming, with a 4% drop; and Oklahoma, with a 3% decline.

The 5,000th largest bank in the nation was the First National Bank, Wayzata, Minn., with $48.2 million in deposits, a decline of 10% from $53.6 million a year earlier, when it ranked 4,783rd.

In 1984, the Ames Bank in Omaha, with $45.7 million in deposits, was the nation's 5,000th largest bank. The Ames Bank ranked 5,270th on Dec. 31, 1985, with $45.8 million in deposits.

In 1982, the 5,000th largest bank in the nation was the Bank of San Felipe Green NA, Houston, with deposits of $39.4 million. At yearend 1984, the bank, which is now called MBank San Felipe NA, ranked 3739th, with $60.1 million in deposits. In 1985 this bank again rose in rank, to 2,526, with $91.3 million in deposits. ■

New York Assembly Mulls 10-Day Check-Clear Bill

Special to the American Banker

ALBANY, N.Y. — The settlement of checks drawn on banks outside the country and deposited for collection must be completed within 10 business days, and the funds must be credited immediately to customers' accounts, under legislation introduced in the New York State Assembly.

The proposal, sponsored by Assemblyman Alton Waldon, D-Queens, would provide for the regulation of this type of transaction and would establish a specific time frame for the transaction.

While the provisions of the bill allow the superintendent of banks to prescribe regulations that would allow exceptions should the 10-day period prove insufficient, the bill would void any previous agreement between the bank and the depositor.

In a related matter, a proposal to require banks to accept multiple-endorsed checks for deposit was introduced in the state Senate by Sen. Charles Cook, R-Del.

According to Sen. Cook, this measure would facilitate business transactions through the easy transfer of negotiable instruments by mandating banks to accept the multiple-endorsed checks, provided that the last endorser is guaranteed by a practicing New York State attorney. ■

BancOklahoma Stung by Oil Price Drop Despite Keeping Energy Loans in Check

By JOHN MORRIS

TULSA, Okla. — Like lightning, collapses in energy prices care not where they strike. Just ask Leonard Eaton, chairman of BancOklahoma Corp., the state's second largest bank holding company with $2.9 billion in assets.

This seemingly prudent lender to the energy industry has been severely burned by the fastest drop in oil prices in recorded history. Energy loans make up less than one-sixth of its total loans — a surprisingly low level given Oklahoma's dependence on oil and gas — yet the plunge forced it to take more in losses in the first quarter of 1986 than it earned in the whole of the previous three years.

OKLAHOMA
The Energy Squeeze
LAST OF A SERIES

Mr. Eaton wears a frown on his face nowadays, although he tries to look cheerful. He doesn't sleep well at night, either, as he wonders what oil and gas prices will do next and what Oklahoma's economy will look like as a result. Part of his frustration is his inability to control the situation. All he can do is react.

"In November, I thought we were coming out of this. We were looking at 1986 as a growth year," he said. "Who would have guessed 12 months ago that the con-

Paradox: Consumer Credit Losses Up

Yet, More and More Major Banks Today Aggressively Seek Consumer Borrowers

By MICHAEL WEINSTEIN

NEW YORK — Consumer credit losses are up sharply at many of the nation's leading banks at a time when banks are lending more and more of their dollars to consumers.

In most cases, bad credit card debt is the biggest factor in higher loan losses. Lured by high profits, banks have promoted plastic aggressively to consumers around the country, turning up plenty of poor credit risks in the process.

But analysts do not anticipate a consumer debt crisis as long as the economy remains healthy. Overzealous credit card lenders, however, may take big hits, they say.

Meanwhile, big banks are expected to continue their emphasis on retail lending even though loan losses may be even higher this year.

Consumer lending, which has outpaced overall bank lending for three years now, appeals to banks for a number of reasons.

Sluggish demand and fierce competition in the commercial lending business has severely cut the profitability of making loans to big companies.

And banks have cut back on their international lending. "With that option being curtailed, banks in general are increasingly coveting the consumer," said Thomas H. Hanley, the director of the bank research department at Salomon Brothers Inc.

And credit cards have been a favored method for reaching consumers.

"There is no doubt about it that the fastest area of growth over the last couple of years, and especially during '85,

Limited-Service Banks Among Biggest Gainers

Asset Rankings of Top 2,500 Also Sees Leaps from Mergers

By L. MICHAEL CACACE

NEW YORK — Limited-service banks posted some of the largest gains in assets last year, according to the American Banker's new survey of the top 2,500 commercial banks, ranked by assets.

Four limited-service banks in Delaware, established by some of the nation's largest banking companies, posted substantial asset gains last year. A limited-service bank, as defined for survey purposes, is one with a commercial bank charter, but which makes few or no commercial loans. In most cases these institutions have been used by a bank holding company to handle a particular function, such as their credit card operations, and to take advantage of higher usury ceilings and tax advantages.

Chase Manhattan Bank (USA), Wilmington, Del., posted the largest gain in rank among the nation's 100 largest banks, moving up 83 places in rank to 78th position. The bank — which han-

Indianapolis: A Fairy Tale Success

Indianapolis has been labelled the Midwestern "Cinderella City." In a survey of chief bank executives all over the United States, Indianapolis was expected to have "the most dramatic growth in the next decade" of any city in the midwest region. That's chosen from step-sister cities in all 11 states.

According to the research firm, it's "clearly a compliment." American Fletcher calls it more than a compliment: it's deserved recognition. And it fits perfectly. We know Indianapolis will be living successfully ever after.
